Robert E. Howard (1906–1936) was an American pulp-fiction writer who is best known as the creator of Conan, a character that has been featured in film, television, comics, and other media. Despite his suicide at the age of thirty, Howard wrote a huge number of stories in a variety of genres, including fantasy, westerns, horror, and even boxing stories.

Robertson Dean, a graduate of the Yale School of Drama, has played leading roles on and off Broadway. Dean has narrated hundreds of audiobooks, including The Good Life by Jay McInerney and The Trudeau Vector by Juris Jurjevics, for which he won an AudioFile Earphones Award.

THE HORROR STORIES OF ROBERT E. HOWARD

The legacy of one of the world's great masters of the macabre, here is a collection of Robert E. Howard's greatest horror tales.

Robert E. Howard, renowned creator of Conan the barbarian, was also a master at conjuring tales of hair-raising horror. In a career spanning only twelve years, Howard wrote more than a hundred stories, with his most celebrated work appearing in Weird Tales, the preeminent pulp magazine of the era.

In this collection of Howard's greatest horror tales, some of the author's best-known characters—Solomon Kane, Bran Mak Morn, and sailor Steve Costigan among them—roam the forbidding locales of Howard's fevered imagination, from the swamps and bayous of the Deep South to the fiend-haunted woods outside Paris to remote jungles in Africa.

Included in this collection is Howard's masterpiece "Pigeons from Hell," a tale of two travelers who stumble upon the ruins of a Southern plantation—and into the maw of its fatal secret. In "Black Canaan," even the best warrior has little chance of taking down the evil voodoo man with unholy powers—and none at all against his wily mistress, the diabolical High Priestess of Damballah. Also included is the classic revenge nightmare "Worms of the Earth" as well as "The Cairn on the Headland."

PRAISE FOR ROBERT E. HOWARD

"Howard's writing seems so highly charged with energy that it nearly gives off sparks." —Stephen King

"For stark, living fear...what other writer is even in the running with Robert E. Howard?" —H. P. Lovecraft

"I adore these books. Howard had a gritty, vibrant style—broadsword writing that cut its way to the heart, with heroes who are truly larger than life. I heartily recommend them to anyone who loves fantasy."

—David Gemmell, author of Legend
